

MarshallMD

For alumni & friends of the Marshall University Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine

MEET DEAN
DAVID GOZAL

Marshall

To view previous editions of Marshall MD and Web Xtras, check out jcesom.marshall.edu/MarshallMD mother was actively involved in the Huntington community. Her involvement and their father's

The impact of the scholarships is not lost on the recipients. Nathaniel Porter, class of 2025; Skylar Cooper, class of 2026; Sydney Smith, Class of 2027; and Mitchell Nelson, class of 2027 are current recipients. When asked what the scholarships mean to them, the students say they feel “appreciative,” “honored” and “grateful.” They speak of the confidence that it instills in them that someone

A common thread is woven throughout Dr. David Gozal's prolific career in pediatric pulmonology and sleep medicine, is his visionary leadership in aca-

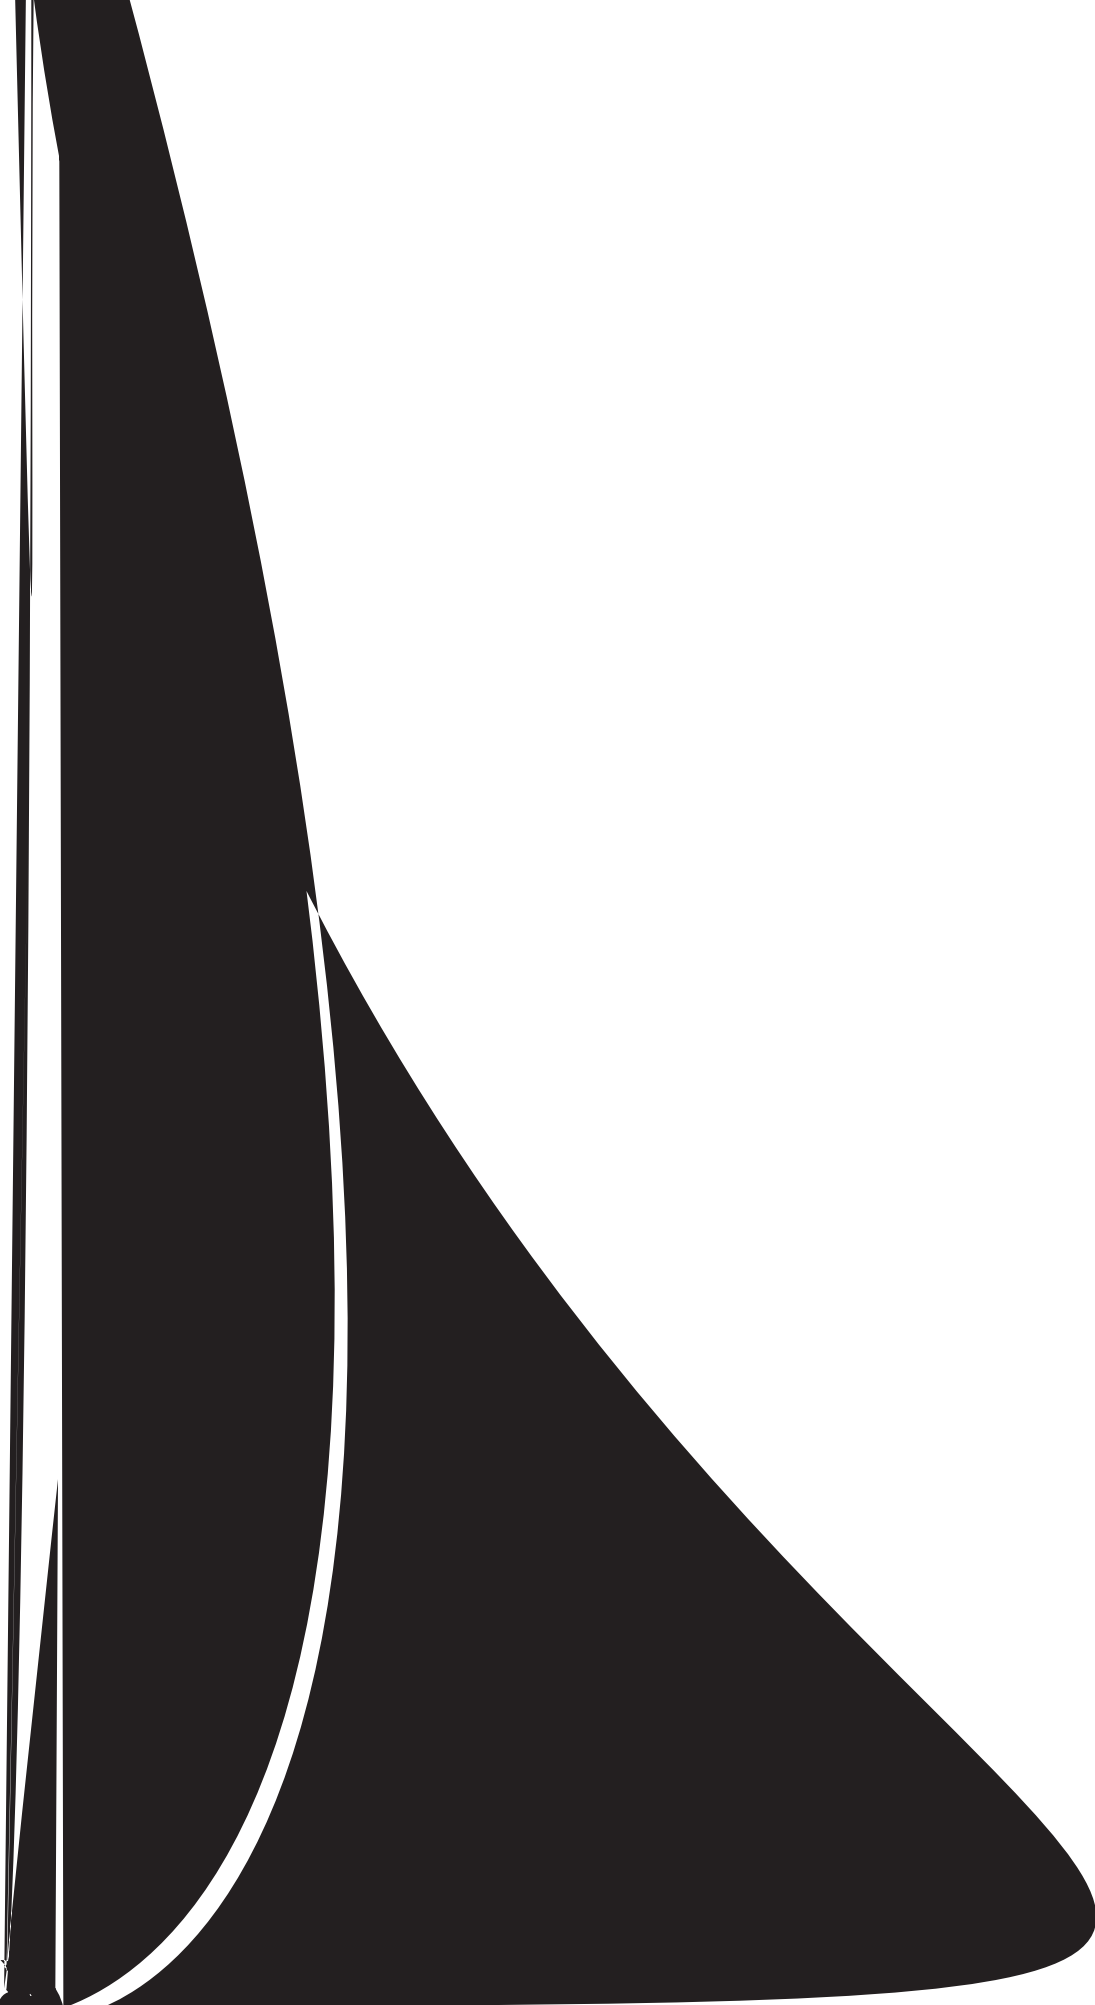

Smith said Gozal's record of research, education and business acumen set him apart during the university's six-month national search for a new dean.

Dr. Chuck Clements may have been late to a career in medicine, but few have done more for the poor and underser

Physicians utilize the arts as a creative outlet and means to improve their skills and empathy.

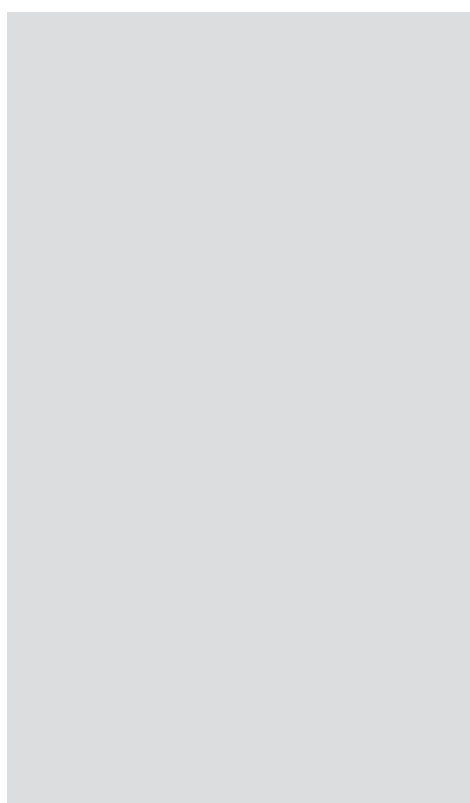

By Megan Archer

Anisha P. Valluri

Cincinnati

On behalf of the entire Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine family, we want to personally thank you for your generosity and support.

White Coats: Class of 2027

Robert C. Anton, MD

1989

it serves—Washington,
Wyoming, Alaska, Montana

family moved to Charleston, West Virginia when he was a young boy, which ultimately led him to Marshall. He earned a degree in architec-

1. Mixing and mingling with this group of Charlotte, NC, area School of Medicine medical alumni made for a great time.

2. Cheers from Drs. Donnah We25G8Drs

